

Russia-During World War II, Russia became a target for Nazi Germany. However, American superheroes like Captain America helped to defend the country. Russia became the Soviet Union and entered a Cold War with the United States; during this time, Russia sent many superhuman spies to undermine American interests. In the modern day, Russia is the home of Sojourn Enterprises, a multinational transportation company that was secretly a cover for the activities of the terrorist group the Ten Rings. Eventually, the terrorist ring was stopped by S.H.I.E.L.D, along with their plot to launch a missile at the Russian-North Korean Border. Russia also houses many different illegal arms dealers that have yet to be rooted out. Russia contains a multitude of superhumans within its borders and the Government would like to regulate them. Russia has an interest in rapidly developing its super-technology and Sojourn Enterprises, a major contributor to this, has a Space Division.

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Russia>

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Russia>

https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Russian_History#cite_note-Human_Torch_Comics_Vol_1_12-

13

Sokovia-Sokovia was a former Soviet Bloc nation and the country endured long decades of conflict until an uprising put the nation under totalitarian control of the dictator-Kamil Novoty. The failing infrastructure facilitated the invasion of Red Skull and his Hydra forces, allowing them to gain control of the country. Persistent opposition from S.H.I.E.L.D limited HYDRA's power but the fascists continued to have a presence in the nation. HYDRA created an underground research base where they tested alien technologies on people, creating new superhumans in the process and also produced a line of defense robots. The Avengers launched an attack on the base and ceased its operations. However, Ultron later repurposed the HYDRA defense robots to serve him and created his Doomsday Project in Sokovia. This Doomsday Project involved raising the capital of Novi Grad into the sky and launching it back into the earth, replicating a meteor. The Avengers responded by fighting back against Ultron and his sentries while evacuating most of the city. Ultron succeeded in launching the city to the ground and it was destroyed, however, combined efforts from the heroes stopped the disaster from reaching cataclysmic proportions. Still, Sokovia is one of the reasons for this committee as it portrays the destructive capabilities of superhumans with no regulations. Sokovia has superhumans and access to superhuman technologies.

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Sokovia>

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Sokovia>

Barbuda (A.I.M Island)-Barbuda was a British colony and a main exporter of slaves during the 18th and 19th centuries, but the slaves gained emancipation in 1834. The island stayed under British imperial rule until November 1st of 1981, when the island gained its independence along with Antigua as a Commonwealth country. In 1995, Hurricane Luis, a category 4 storm, ravaged the island leaving 3,000 homeless and costing 100-350 million dollars to rebuild. So, Advanced Idea Mechanics, or A.I.M, bought the island to establish a sovereign nation and go public. With a time machine, A.I.M accelerated the flow of time around the island, quickly creating an empire that they named A.I.M Island. A.I.M would never regulate their own superhumans and super-technology, as their superhumans are villains and their technology is extremely formidable. However, A.I.M is interested in keeping up a upstanding image to the the rest of the world.

Links

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Barbuda>

https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Advanced_Idea_Mechanics_\(Earth-616\))

The People's Republic of China-Thousands of years ago, a mighty sorcerer erected a sanctuary in a place of power, where Hong Kong would later be located, he left it in the care of the Masters of the Mystic Arts. For millennia, dynastic cycles would come and go as the nation expanded, splintered, and re-unified many times. However, as the Chinese Civil War ended in 1949, the Communist Party gained control of the nation. During the Cold War, the Government had researched into the creation of superhumans and had much success. At the same time as the Battle of New York, James Rhodes or War Machine was in Hong Kong, defending against a Ten Rings bioterrorist attack. The terrorist group nearly succeeded as they had access to Hammer Industries technology like the Battle Tank. War Machine saved the city, but years later the it came under assault once more. This time, a separatist group of the Masters of the Mystic Arts, the Zealots, attacked the Hong Kong Sanctum to destroy it. The Masters of the Mystic Arts defeated them and Hong Kong and its Sanctum were safe from harm. These threats to Hong Kong has the Government wary regarding superhumans and technology.

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/China>

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/China>

https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Chinese_History

Ethiopia- People have lived in Ethiopia for thousands of years and the nation flourished in the middle ages. During World War II, Italy and the Nazis succeeded in conquering the nation to gain a strategic position against the British. However, the British, along with the jungle adventurer Ka-Zar pushed the Axis Powers out of Ethiopia in 1941, restoring the Emperor to his throne. In 1974, the Communists seized power, causing massive deportations and famine until they were overthrown in 1991. Since then, Ethiopia remains poor with its economy growing rapidly, leading towards an optimistic future. The nation is focused on developing the infrastructure rather than respond to superhuman threats. While Ethiopia has superhumans, the government does not have access to any super-technologies.

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Ethiopia>

https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/David_Rand_\(Earth-616\))

South Africa-For centuries, South Africa faced imperial rule, first by the Dutch and next by the British. The nation gained its independence in 1961 and became a sovereign nation. However, this change did not stop the Apartheid as the National party had been pushing segregation since 1948. Thankfully, Apartheid ended in 1991 and a new constitution was written with rights for all in mind. Recently, South Africa has become another example of superhumans causing major damages. In the Duel of Johannesburg, the Hulk went into a state of uncontrollable rage under mind control and Iron Man equipped his Hulkbuster Armor to stop Hulk. However, the two entered a destructive brawl in which both parties caused major financial damages and civilian deaths. Hulk was eventually subdued, but the collateral damage had been done and despite the use of the Stark Relief Foundation, the Government was very upset with the Avengers. There are South African superhumans but the government does not have access to superhuman technology.

Links

https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/South_Africa

https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/South_Africa

Egypt-Egyptian society is one that dates back thousands of years. Naturally, the rule of such a nation shifted between many empires in history-those being the Greeks, Romans, Ottoman, and more up until British occupation ended in 1954 and Egypt became independent. Much of recent Egyptian history is characterized by the events, during and following the thirty year rule of former president Hosni Mubarak. He was deposed in the Egyptian Revolution in 2011 and Egypt held its first Democratic election that same year. The HYDRA Infiltration crisis revealed that Egypt was one of the targets for Project Insight, as the citizens were deemed risky for Hydra's plans. The Egyptian Government has taken due consideration regarding superhumans following this revelation. The nation contains superhumans and the enigmatic super-technologies that date back to ancient Egypt.

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Egypt>

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Egypt>

https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Egyptian_History

Haiti-Throughout history, Haiti has been a country of revolutionary conflict. The Spanish colonized it in the 15th and 16th Century and the French took over in the 17th Century. Since then it was rife with political strife and natural disasters; so the population took solace in the Voodoo Religion, which combined elements of many religions from the indigenous populations. Voodoo magic has been used throughout history to both protect and damage Haiti and its citizens, so the Government seeks to regulate superhumans.

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Haiti>

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Haiti>

Angola-In the 1920s, the Portuguese gained complete control over Angola, using forced labor for decades until a coup granted Angola independence in 1974. However, there was much infighting in the country following independence and a long Civil War raged until a ceasefire in 2002. Angola was devastated and the country was slowly rebuilt by relying on exports of oil to build up its economy. Because the country is still poor, concerns such as superhumans, super-tech, and intergalactic defense are not the biggest concerns for the Government.

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Angola>

Botswana-Under threat by the Germans in Namibia and the Boers in Transvaal, the British declared Botswana a protectorate in 1885 and named it Bechuanaland. In 1960, the Bechuanaland People's Party was formed to work towards independence; they achieved it in 1966. The economy grew rapidly as diamonds were discovered in several mines and tourism and manufacturing became large industries for the country. The nation is allied with the other nations in the Southern African Development Community or SADC. This means that Botswana has an interest in solving transboundary issues, such as problems with superhumans or super-technologies. However, Botswana's government is focused on the country's rapid development above all else.

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Botswana>

Costa Rica-In 1821, Costa Rica gained independence from three long centuries of Spanish occupation. The first democratic election was held in 1889 and the 20th century was peaceful, save for a civil war in 1948. A new constitution was signed following the war and Costa Rica's economy has prospered since with tourism and exports like bananas and coffee. However, Costa Rica has issues regarding illegal arms and super-tech dealing within its borders and the government would like to root it out. However, the nation does not often have superhuman threats due in part to the lack of Costa Rican superhumans.

https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Costa_Rica

Wakanda-2.5 million years ago, a meteorite made of an alien metal named vibranium, landed in Africa, affecting the fauna surrounding the point of impact. A warrior Shaman named Bashenga was led to ingesting a plant that gave him superhuman abilities, creating the Black Panther and the first King of Wakanda. After uniting most of the warring tribes, Wakanda quickly developed technology that was more highly-advanced than any other tech in existence. To protect themselves from the outer world, they created a cloaking field to hide the whole nation. Wakanda has yet to reveal its true nature to the world, and judging by the current leader this is not likely to change. However, Wakanda has had issues in the past regarding vibranium being smuggled out of the country and sold on the black market.

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Wakanda>

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Wakanda>

https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Wakandan_History

South Korea-The nation's first constitution was established on July 17th, 1948. From then on, six different republics characterized South Korean history with internal conflict running in tandem with each. However, in 1992, Kim Young-sam was elected president and became South Korea's first civilian leader in 30 years. The Sunshine Policy was also enacted to resolve long-lasting issues with North Korea. In 2015, the U-Gin Genetic Research Facility was infiltrated by Ultron. Ultron mind-controlled one of the lead scientists with the intention of producing a vibranium body. He failed because the Avengers intervened, but not before Seoul was in a state of chaos. As a result, the government has a new interest in regulating domestic and foreign superhumans and super-technology.

https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/South_Korea

https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/U-GIN_Genetic_Research_Facility

https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/South_Korea

Belgium-Belgium suffered in both World Wars. In the World Wars, Belgium was neutral and invaded. In WWII, this hostile takeover was due in part to HYDRA, who established multiple facilities in Belgium. However, the Allies liberated the country in 1944 and Belgium was left devastated. Despite this, Belgium quickly recovered and became one of the founding members of the EU, and it is the headquarters of the EU today. Information suggests that the current Belgian Minister of Foreign Affairs is an undercover operative of HYDRA. There are no native superhumans in Belgium, but super-tech is left over from HYDRA's occupation of the nation.

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Belgium>

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Belgium>

Estonia-Estonia was invaded by the Russians in 1940 and became absorbed by the Soviet Union. Estonia was a Communist State until 1991, when the Estonians staged a coup to gain independence. Communism was dismantled and replaced with a market economy; Estonia joined the EU in 2005. While the nation has a history with superhuman threats, it does not have any superhumans or super-technologies in its borders.

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Estonia>

Djibouti- During the era of imperialism in Africa, Djibouti was colonized by France. The French had placed a large investment to counter British presence in the Suez Canal in 1869. The nation gained independence from France in 1977 after a series of referendums. After independence was gained, Djibouti strengthened its foreign ties by joining the African Union, Arab League, and United Nations the following year. Today, Djibouti remains a strategic military location. The U.S, Japan, China, France, and Italy all pay the nation to establish military bases. Currently, Djibouti's political system is characterized as a unitary presidential republic. President Ismaïl Omar Guelleh is the current leader and has been since 1999.

<https://www.britannica.com/place/Djibouti>

<https://www.cia.gov/-library/publications/the-world-factbook/geos/dj.html>

Nepal- Nepal's history has been filled with multiple dynasties dating back to ancient times. Nepali politics have largely been filled with quarrels over the royal political system. In 2008, the country ended the system of Monarchy through a majority vote from their Constituent assembly. All throughout this time, Nepal was harboring superhumans within the hidden Kingdom of Spiders near the Himalayas. Although there are superhumans residing in Nepal, the Nepali government does not have direct access to them. Nepal remains as a poor nation today with tourism in the Himalayas serving as a huge portion of their economic gain. Kamar-Taj, the training grounds for Masters of the Mystics Arts is located within Nepal. Agamoto was the first Sorcerer Supreme and built multiple sanctums around the rest of the planet.

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Nepal>

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Nepal>

Australia- Dating back 40,000 years ago, the Aboriginals in Australia had worshipped superhuman Aboriginal humanoids. These humanoids have persisted into the modern era. In 1770, the British claim Australia as part of their own empire. In 1901, the country was gained independence once the British parliament allows several colonies to govern themselves. In the past, Australia harbored one of S.H.I.E.L.D.'s safe houses in Sydney. Furthermore, the Australian government set up the Australian Threat Unit (ATU) to deal with superhuman outbreaks(Inhumans in various regions). Australia is an active member of the Commonwealth of Nations and has strong ties with New Zealand.

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Australia>

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Australia>

The Republic of Congo- Formerly a colony of France, the Republic of Congo gained independence in 1960. The country's main source of income relies upon oil production. Since oil prices have gone down since 2015, the country has faced an economic downturn. Furthermore, The Ten Rings, an international terrorist group has affiliations with members of the Congolese army. The U.S has sent military planes for tests over the Republic of Congo without permission. Other than the U.N, the Republic of Congo is affiliated with the African Union.

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Congo>

https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Republic_of_the_Congo

Albania - Albania was first recognized as an independent state back in 1912. Up until WWII, Albania had a parliamentary based government. When war broke out, Italy's leader Mussolini took control and installed a puppet government in the country. Once Mussolini was defeated in the war, a communist party took control of Albania. They imposed a totalitarian regime over the people. It was not until 1991 when student-led protests lead to government reforms. Albania went through political liberalization during this time and finally held elections. Albania has been a member of NATO since 2009 and has been trying to become a member of the EU.

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Albania>

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Albania>

Argentina- Following three centuries of rule by the Spanish, Argentina finally declared its independence in 1816. By the 20th century, Argentina found its economy and institutions suffering;the country had been severely affected by the Great Depression. Furthermore, a series of short lived governments ensued from the early 1930s up to the 1970s. Numerous military coup d'état happened with regime changes from democracy to authoritarianism. Finally, during the 1990s, Argentina held peaceful elections. During WWII, Argentina joined the Allies in 1944 after being formally aligned with the Axis. Following the end of the war, many Nazis from Germany had fled to South American countries. Despite the shift in the war, many Nazis made their way into Argentina. HYDRA was known to have close affiliations with the Nazis. HYDRA formerly had a stronghold stationed in Argentina until S.H.I.E.L.D. agents took it down.

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Argentina>

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Argentina>

Switzerland- During the first World War, Switzerland remained neutral. Overall, Switzerland has remained neutral in most world affairs. Although the country has remained neutral, it is responsible for producing individuals involved in superhuman technology and war. Arnim Zola was a prominent Swiss scientist allied with the Nazis during WWII. Zola was responsible for helping create superhuman weapons through the power manifested inside of the Tesseract. Furthermore, HYDRA had secret bases in Switzerland during the war. Lastly, in the modern era, S.H.I.E.L.D. formerly had a base located in Switzerland for operations.

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Switzerland>

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Switzerland>

Benin- Formerly part of French West Africa, Benin did not officially gain its independence until 1960. Following independence, Benin experienced a series of military coups. It was not until 1995 when Mathieu Kérékou won the first democratic elections held in Benin. Benin was seen as the first African country to transition from an authoritarian system to a pluralist democracy. In the past Benin has possessed a vibranium weapon made in Wakanda. The British had taken the weapon back in the 19th century and put it in their museums.

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Benin>

<https://www.britannica.com/place/Benin>

Singapore - Modern Singapore was founded in 1819 by the former Governor-General of the Dutch East Indies. Serving mainly as a trading post country, Singapore was considered to be an important gateway for Europe and East Asia. Singapore became an independent state shortly after Lee Kuan Yew came to power in 1959. Although his rule is considered to be authoritarian, Lee Kuan Yew managed to transform Singapore into one of the richest nations in the world. Lee Kuan Yew only gave up power in 1990. By then, the new leader led reforms for political liberalization. Although extremely wealthy, Singapore has no access direct access to superhuman technology and currently has no superhumans.

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Singapore>

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Singapore>

Canada - Originally part of the British empire, Canada first gained its independence in 1931.

Connections to their British past still remain since Queen Elizabeth II is recognized as their head of state. Canada was a participant in both World Wars being on the side of France and Great Britain. Throughout its history, Canada has had plenty of affiliations with superhumans. Agents Skye, Hunter, and Triplet of S.H.I.E.L.D. were known to have confrontations with HYDRA agents during one of their missions in Vancouver, Canada.

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Canada>

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Canada>

Italy - Participating both in WWI and WWII, Italy alliances were unique in both situations. In WWI, Italy was allied with Britain, France in the U.S. They were known as the allies. In WWII, Italy took a turn with new dictator Benito Mussolini in power. They were on the side of the Axis with Nazi Germany and Japan. Once Mussolini was taken out of power, the Italian government slowly rebuilt its economy and overall prosperity with the help of the Marshall plan from the U.S. Currently, Italy does have access to superhuman technology and superhumans. HYDRA is known to have affiliations with the Italian company CyberTek. CyberTek is a technology company that is known to have been involved with HYDRA in supersoldier serum experiments.

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Italy>

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Italy>

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Cybertek>

Colombia -Colombia has faced domestic problems from the start. Back in 1816, Colombia was a Republic consisting of the nations of Panama, Venezuela, Colombia, and Ecuador. Multiple civil wars by the 1820s caused the nations to split. Once Colombia was independent, they also faced heavy political polarization causing a ten year long civil war to finally break out in the mid 1900s between the right-wing and left-wing parties in power. By 1957, these parties had come to an agreement and agreed to share power. Today, despite still facing some violence, Colombia continues to grow and develop. Alexander Pierce(former S.H.I.E.L.D. leader) was stationed in the country's capital Bogota in the state department. Pierce was shown to have defected to HYDRA after developing his plans for a new world order. Furthermore, Colombia's history has shown a presence of superhuman activity.

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Colombia>

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Colombia>

Iran - The Islamic Republic of Iran is a sovereign state located in the Middle East. It's home to one of the oldest civilizations, has a heavily relied economy on oil exports, and is a founding member of OPEC. In 2019, Iran has reached its 40th anniversary of the Islamic Republic, which established after the overthrow of the last shah. Because of previous Western interference in Iranian politics, Iran's political culture is strongly anti-west. There is no clear connection as to whether the Iranian state has ties to the terrorist organization Ten Rings, but Farsi, or Persian, the official language of Iran, is one of the languages known to be spoken among members. The state has gotten frequent media attention regarding its desire of building a nuclear program. Stepford Cuckoos was sent to cancel Iran's nuclear program by performing memory rewriting on Iranian leaders. Iran does not have access to superhumans or super technologies.

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Iran>

https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Ten_Rings

United Kingdom - Once ruling over a fifth of the world's population, the United Kingdom has had a significant role in global politics. The UK has had numerous encounters against HYDRA, most prominently in World War II with leading agent Peggy Carter. S.H.I.E.L.D. is also an affiliate of the UK, having recruited some agents to join the agency. In 2016, the UK joined 116 countries to sign the Sokovia Accords, requiring the registration of all superhumans. The UK has high access to supertechnologies and superhumans, as many superhumans call the UK home. This includes Spiderwoman and Mister Sinister.

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Category:British> https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/United_Kingdom

https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/United_Kingdom

Mexico - Mexico has managed to keep steer clear of potential conflict with superhuman forces. Sill, Mexico has access to superhuamans. Some notable nationals include Velocidad, Ghost Rider, and Masacre. Notable incidents to occur in Mexico include a brief stay in the town of Chiapas by Bruce Banner in pursuit of returning to the United States after fleeing from General Ross. There was also mission work by the Agents of S.H.I.E.L.D. in trying to figure out Quake's (Skye) past. Richard Lumley, who resided in Mexico City, led the team over there to answer some questions.

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Mexico>

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Category:Mexicans>

Algeria - Algeria has yet to come with serious contact regarding superhumans and supertechnologies. The most significant connection Algeria has with any nationals is that of Georges Batroc, a mercenary and pirate. He was captured by Captain America in a hijacking, which was set up by Nick Fury. Though Algeria might not have much access to superhumans and technologies, Algeria has one of the largest militaries in Africa and has the highest military budget on the continent. Algeria is a member of OPEC and has the second largest oil reserve in Africa, an essential market in their economy.

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Algeria>

Tanzania - Located in East, mid-southern Africa, Tanzania found itself to have access to vast quantities of different minerals, including gold, diamonds, uranium. These resources attracted European colonizers, and Tanzania ended up part of German East Africa, and was taken over by the British during World War One. The region now known as Tanzania split from the colony and in 1964 became the United Republic of Tanzania. Gold had become a valuable means of transaction, as it was used in business dealings, particularly with paying of Todd Chesterfield.

Tanzania has access to only one superhuman national, Askari.

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Tanzania>

https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Jono_Baraka_\(Earth-616\))

Iraq - Iraq has its own superhero group known as Desert Sword. Current members are Black Raazor and Sirocco. Former members include Veil, Aminedi, and Arabian Knight, who all died in combat in Kuwait City. After the launch of the United States led War on Terror, Iraq suffered significantly in its state stability. Killmonger had several missions in Iraq, learning much of his combat skills through the tours. Iraq, like Iran, might also have affiliations with the Ten Rings terrorist organization given its conflict with western countries and that members are known to speak Arabic. But a connection is not known for sure. Today, after recovering from conflict with ISIL, Iraq faces territorial disputes between the Iraqi government and Iraqi Kurds.

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Iraq>

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Category:Iraqis>

Greece - In World War II, Greece was occupied by the Axis powers. So Greece has had former association with HYDRA, as HYDRA facilities were kept in the state. Greece has access to many powerful superhumans, as many figures from Greek mythology are prevalent in the Marvel universe. Powerful figures include Hercules, Achilles, and the siren Venus. Access to supertechnologies is unclear, but can probably be assumed considering the former connection with the HYDRA facility there. Though Captain America did destroy the base, it is possible for potential HYDRA resources to have been saved, but this of course is just speculation. Expand please

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Greece>

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Category:Greeks>

Iceland - Iceland is regarded by many studies to be one of the most developed countries in the world, and is ranked first on the Global Peace Index. Iceland does not have much access to superhumans or supertechnologies. Iceland did face some encounters with Thor and Frost Giants, but not much else. Only notable figures from Iceland include Lord Drain, who led the Icelandic chapter of HYDRA. Drain has the ability of telepathy and is considered to be a renowned assassin. The other figure is Gunner, a member of SHE (Superheros of Europe), whom not much is known about, as he makes a brief appearance in the comics.

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Category:Icelandic>

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Iceland>

Sudan - Sudan has no clear connection to superhumans or supertechnologies. Research should be conducted on allies and whether trade agreements with these allies can lead to potential access. Though, this can be difficult given the United Nations' induction of sanctions on the state, which have been in place since 1995. This is in result of the conflict between the Sudanese government and the Sudan Revolutionary Front, as there have been repeated offenses of human rights violations, religious persecutions, and a suspicion that Sudan is harboring terrorists.

Mongolia - During Mongolia's prime in its empire, it had access to a superhuman, giving a deep advantage to the Mongols. Today, Mongolia no longer seems to have that same advantage. No clear connection to superhumans are evident, as well as supertechnologies. Research should be conducted on allies and whether trade agreements with these allies can lead to potential access. Mongolia's foreign relations has primarily been with Russia and China, as both states are the most significant importers of Mongolian exports. Mongolia's economy mostly surrounds mining and agriculture.

Bahamas - The Bahamas has direct access to one superhuman, Clarice Ferguson. She has the abilities of warping teleportation and trans-spatial displacement. While there is no clear connection of the Bahamas having access to supertechnologies, Tony Stark did own a villa there, which may imply there may have been access to advanced technologies. This, of course, has not been determined.

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Bahamas>

https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Clarice_Ferguson_\(Earth-616\))

El Salvador - El Salvador has no clear connection to superhumans or supertechnologies.

Research should be conducted on allies and whether trade agreements with these allies can lead to potential access. El Salvador has moved to strengthen its economy by opening up to trade and financial links, and has adopted the U.S. dollar as its official currency in 2001. Though the state is experiencing industrialization at an accelerated rate, El Salvador still faces high inequality, violence, and poverty.

Germany -

Germany has a complicated history mixed with war and technological gain. After the destabilization of Germany following World War 1, Adolf Hitler managed to rise to power, giving a pathway for HYDRA to exist. The Red Skull, an officer for Nazi Germany and the leader of HYDRA began to adopt and research the link between "magic" and physics, discovering and utilizing the Tesseract to create many weapons of significant power. After World War II, Germany played an integral role in the Cold War, including its former ties to HYDRA and the Soviets current involvement. With the Cold War ended, Germany saw the power of Loki first hand, as well as hosting refugees of Sokovia following the destruction. Germany hosts many superhumans, being the first developers of the superhuman serum and has taken part in developing supertechnologies.

Links:

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Germany>

https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Red_Skull

https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Abraham_Erskine

https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Daniel_Whitehall

Poland -

Poland's involvement in superhuman and supertechnology stems mainly from their unwanted involvement in the Second World War, HYDRA, and the Soviet Union. Much of their recent history is not forged by willing, independent governments and their decisions, but by those in control of their territory. Several missions by HYDRA and SHIELD were conducted in Poland, although the state does not hold any superhumans, nor its own supertechnologies. Poland has had its host of events, but despite that does not lay claim to any single individual or thing. (see: Vengeance) Although many scientists have acquired the knowledge to produce such technology, Poland has yet to acquire the resources to do so.

Links:

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Poland>

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Poland>

https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Vengeance_\(Kowalski\)__\(Earth-616\)__(Earth-616))

USA -

The United States has a plethora of superhuman and supertechnology history. Being the current hub of events, creation and research. The US is also the home of the former SHIELD and the Avengers, giving it a first-person look at everything that could possibly be going on in the world. That does not necessarily give it the best reputation, after HYDRA infiltrated and established certain levels of control. The President was kidnapped and held hostage by a superhuman, Aldrich Killian, and hosts their own superhumans as part of their military. Being the creator of Captain America, the United States has the technology and capability of creating superhumans as well as numerous supertechnologies, which they take part in regularly.

Links:

https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/United_States_of_America

(There is a lot of content. The caveat for this country is that you, the delegate, have to ask the chair what can be used for research purposes outside of the Marvel Cinematic Universe jurisdiction.)

Bolivia -

Known Bolivian involvement in the world of superhumans and supertechnologies includes a plethora of heroes and militia members utilizing some of the scraps from various conflicts. Deadpool has had a variety of different missions to Bolivia, in an attempt to confront different militias. Bolivia, like Argentina, is home to former Nazi sympathizers, giving it a niche position to host ideas that have been passed down as well as technological gains. For the position, the story of Sigmund Fell does exist, but the Bolivian government has yet to discover it, as well as the remainder of the known world. Goldbug has lived here, as well as Black Tarantula, who is Argentinian. Be cognizant of what their allied countries and neighbors are involved in.

Links:

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Bolivia>

Syria

Syria does not have any superhuman representatives, but the country has had its fair share of HYDRA events as well as its own history as the former Mesopotamia. As a member of the Middle East, Syria has deep connections, culturally and otherwise, to its neighbors. A few of the HYDRA operatives cause disturbance here and there, and their technologies and abilities have been leaked to Syrian operatives. The Syrian government is in turmoil, struggling with rebellion and economic issues. It would be logical to rationalize that Syria has its fair share of shared ideals with surrounding nations, and the events that have occurred within the country are part of its recent history in our Marvel world.

Links:

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Syria>

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Syria>

Dominican Republic

The Dominican Republic's involvement in the superhuman and supertechnology only stretch as far as their free trade agreements between the United States and other North and South American countries. Follow the general historical guidelines and economic tendencies to justify the position of the Dominican Republic in relation to the topics.

Japan

Japan has a rich and complicated history, filled with many government changes and legends of numerous superhuman-types. In recent recorded history, Japan served as an axis member, allying itself with Hitler and Mussolini in World War II. The reaches of HYDRA and the Nazi technological sharing system stretched as far as Japan prior to the end of the War. Following the collapse of the Axis powers, Japans economy flourished, developing technology that covered the globe, and allied itself with the most powerful of nations. Stark Enterprises currently carries a partnership with one of Tokyo's leading industrial powers. There are a few superhumans residing in the region, and other organizations as well.

Links:

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Japan>

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Japan>

<https://www.britannica.com/place/Japan/History>

Turkey

The former Ottoman Empire has incredible history, following its own real-world background.

The superhuman conundrum and its technologies have not reached the likes of Turkey quite yet, but it would be safe to assume the current allegiances it has will provide Turkey with its position on the topics.

Links:

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Turkey>

Jamaica

Jamaica, the island country, the issues of the United States and its superhumans have stretched to its border. Although smaller in nature, Jamaica and its allies have the opportunity to closely witness the workings of its regional neighbors, and create opinions based on those relations and its economic and political background.

Links:

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Jamaica>

France - During World War 2, France was occupied by Nazi Germany. Jacques Dernier, member of the Howling Commandos with Captain America, was part of the French Resistance to the occupation. HYDRA built a factory outside of Strasbourg that was subsequently destroyed by the Howling Commandos led by Captain America. After the war and in the context of the Cold War, France joined NATO and developed a nuclear weapons program. Ivan Vanko, after the events of Monte-Carlo, was imprisoned in France before being broken free by Justin Hammer. A S.H.I.E.L.D. base was in Paris and agents were tasked with retrieving Chitauri-tech stolen by the international criminal Vanchat following the Battle of New-York. Captain America and Black Widow encountered a French mercenary and former DGSE-special force, Georges Batroc, that took a S.H.I.E.L.D. vessel containing information on Project Insight information hostage.

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/France>

Cuba - Cuba became a socialist country in 1959 following the revolution led by Fidel Castro. Cuba was a center point for tensions between the USA and the USSR during the Cold War and today remains a hot spot for trafficking, criminals, mercenaries, etc. However, Cuba has also been praised for its advanced Healthcare system and the efficiency of its doctors. Therefore, Cuba has often pushed for more sharing of medical knowledge and of medical technologies. More recently, Cuba was the home of a secret S.H.I.E.L.D. facility, the Barbershop

Headquarters, that was overtook by HYDRA following the HYDRA Uprising. It can be assumed that, during the presence of S.H.I.E.L.D and after HYDRA took over the base, technologies developed by the agency and/or studied there might have made it into the hand of third-parties or the regime.

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Cuba>

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Cuba>

Brazil - Brazil is the largest country in South America and one of the richest one as well. As such, it is a hub for various criminal and extra-legal activities as well as research for super-technologies and enhancement of human beings. In the recent years, Natasha Romanoff, aka the Black Widow, had a mission in Sao Paulo where she caused a bloodshed. Rio de Janeiro was also the home of Bruce Banner, aka the Hulk, while he was on the run from General Ross. There, he conducted research on drugs that could reverse his condition and/or keep it from emerging.

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Brazil>

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Brazil>

Afghanistan - Afghanistan is a landlocked country in the Middle-East at war since the 1980s. As such, Afghanistan has super-technologies being used on its territory, either by conventional armies such as the US Army or by terrorist groups like the Ten Rings. It was in Afghanistan that Tony Stark was held hostage and subsequently made him develop the mini-arc technology and the Iron Man suit at the Ten Rings base.

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Afghanistan>

Austria - Austria is a federal republic in Europe that was occupied by Nazi Germany during World War 2. Therefore, several HYDRA bases were built on the territory including a warehouse storing extraterrestrial technologies and artifacts. After the Allies captured the bases, they were placed under the control of S.H.I.E.L.D. but really controlled by infiltrated-HYDRA. Austria is part of the European Union as well as a center of research and diplomacy with several international organizations having their headquarters in Vienna.

<https://marvelcinematicuniverse.fandom.com/wiki/Austria>

Honduras - Honduras is a Central American country. Its recent history has been troubled with revolutions and civil wars in the 1970s and 1980s. More recently, an attempted coup was thwarted but put the country in a constitutional crisis. Honduras has a moderate level of development and its economy is primarily based on agriculture. Though Honduras does not show signs of having the will or the means to develop super-technologies, the country could be a transit point used by smugglers in the same manner narco traffickers have shown to do. Honduras has not shown signs of being adverse to using these technologies if they could allow the country to further develop its wealth.

<https://www.cia.gov/library/publications/the-world-factbook/geos/ho.html>

Ecuador - Ecuador is a country of Central America. It has had a troubled history with several revolutions, coup d'état and regime changes in the last decades. More recently, Ecuador has stabilized into a democratic regime but development and access to healthcare remain challenges. Ecuador is also a passing point for trafficks. Captain America and Sam Wilson had a mission in Ecuador to destroy a HYDRA base. In the same manner as Cuba, the presence of a HYDRA base in the territory can make one assume that super-technologies being developed and/or stored in this base might have come into the possession of third-parties and/or the régime itself. It also implies that a criminal world is large enough to be used by HYDRA to cover their traces.

<https://marvel.fandom.com/wiki/Ecuador>

Central African Republic - The Central African Republic is a landlocked country in West Africa. Since 2011, the Central African Republic has descended into a civil war, the last in a long list since its independence in the 1960s. Christian militias have conducted ethnic cleansing against the Muslim minority. The United Nations have started a peacekeeping mission, MINUSCA, in 2014 with an important involvement of troops from the African Union and France. The Central African Republic is considered by some to be a failed State, that is to say a state in which the designated central power cannot control either its territory or the administration of the State. Previous cases have shown that these powers are often desperate to stabilize the regime by any means necessary, and that traffickers and smugglers of all kind make use of the disarray to cover their operations.

<https://www.cia.gov/library/publications/the-world-factbook/geos/ct.html>

Bangladesh - Bangladesh is a country of South Asia. It is a former colony of the United Kingdom. Development and poverty levels are very unequal between districts in Bangladesh and the more vulnerable segment of the populations are often subjected to natural disasters. With climate change increasing the frequency and the intensity of these events, Bangladesh is one of the most at risk country in the near-future. Additionally, Bangladesh has been accused of human rights violations and often knows political trouble between the two majority parties.

<https://www.cia.gov/library/publications/the-world-factbook/geos/bg.html>

Jordan - the Kingdom of Jordan is located in the Middle East between Iraq and Israel. Jordan has been praised for its development levels and one of the most stable country in the Middle East. However, Jordan struggles with a large inflow of refugees from the Palestinian territories, Syria and Iraq. Jordan therefore plays a central role in the region, both in terms of economics (as it is one if not the only economic hub available in the region outside of Israel and the Arabian Peninsula) and in terms of religion.

<https://www.cia.gov/library/publications/the-world-factbook/geos/jo.html>

Serbia - Serbia is a country of Eastern Europe, formerly part of Yugoslavia during the Cold War. Following the fall of Yugoslavia, Serbia and its neighboring countries went into a civil war in the 1990s. As a result, a lot of weapons circulated in Serbia during and after the war. Serbia knows ethnic tensions within its territory and with its neighbors because of the various ethnic minorities present in the regions independently from the official borders. Serbia is trying to join the European Union but has been criticized for the state of its democratic institutions, the corruption in its institutions and its ability to limit trafficks.

<https://www.cia.gov/library/publications/the-world-factbook/geos/ri.html>

Venezuela - The Bolivarian Republic of Venezuela is a country in South America rich in oil resources. Following Chavez acceding to power in the 2000s, oil resources have been nationalized but have only benefited a small portion of the population. Because of sanctions put on oil companies, the country has fallen into a deep economic crisis. Since 2014, because of this economic crisis, an important political crisis has taken root in the country and is currently culminating with several countries calling for new, free and fair elections. The hyper-inflation and the lack of necessary resources available to the public has pushed several millions of Venezuelans to flee the country towards Peru and Colombia especially.

<https://www.cia.gov/library/publications/the-world-factbook/geos/ve.html>